On November 28, 2017, Diane Loudon, President of the Company's AEC business segment, informed the Company that she would be retiring from the Company, effective December 31, 2017.

During her six-year tenure at AEC, Ms. Loudon built a strong management team, drove the initial ramp-up and commercial production of AEC's LEAP engine components business, oversaw the acquisition and integration of Harris Corporation's aerospace composites business, and successfully restructured AEC's legacy businesses.

Effective January 1, 2018 and until his successor is in place, Company President and CEO Joseph Morone will serve as the President of AEC, along with his other duties.

In connection with her retirement, the Company and Ms. Loudon have entered into an executive separation agreement, which provides for, among other things, her continued availability to the Company as a consultant on AEC operational and strategic matters for a period of up to two years. Under the agreement, Ms. Loudon will continue to receive her current monthly salary for a period of twenty-four (24) months, will remain eligible for any bonus payable relating to 2017 performance, and receive compensation in an amount equal to the value of any unvested restricted stock units forfeited as the result of her departure.
